DENY BROTHERS USED MONEY

Attorneys Say Conservation Auditor Did Not Divert Funds to Own Use.

ACCUSED OF SHORTAGE

Defense Attempts to Show Irregularities in Operation of Department.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—Frank L. Brothers, former Marion man and former chief accountant in the state conservation department, on trial for embezzlement, sought to show today that there were irregularities in the operation of that department.

Accused of depositing $13,000 of department funds, in his own bank account, Brothers, through the cross-examination of Colin Mechlin, state examiner, attempted to show that money from the sale of a bone cutter, coin pelts and a shed had not reached the state treasury.

Before the defense could develop this angle, Judge John R. King stopped it upon objection of the prosecution. He declared that whether other officials had not observed the law made no difference in Brothers' case.

Under cross-examination, Mechlin was asked whether William Reinhardt, former head of the department, had not sold a bone cutter for $85 to the Mannheim Plush Co. of Sandusky. Mechlin testified he had been told by another examiner of this incident.

Earlier, Mechlin testified that coin pelts had been sold for not more than $500 in the department without the purchase price being credited to the state and the money had been used for the purchase of more coons.

When Mechlin was asked whether a shed at the Roosevelt game preserve in Portsmouth had not been sold, this prompted the objection.

Brothers' counsel then asked Mechlin whether Grant Mouser Jr., Marion attorney for a company handling Brothers' bond, had not offered to employ the witness at $20 a day to see whether there were any errors in connection with your report against Brothers.

Mechlin denied that he admitted to Mouser that there might have been some mistakes in his report against Brothers.

The examiner testified that Brothers had told him that he had used some of the money coming into the department for the entertainment of state sportsmen.

"Did you consider that a proper charge?" Mechlin said he asked Brothers.

"I do if the department chief orders me to do it," he said Brothers replied.

Brothers, removed a year ago as accounting chief of the division of conservation, contends the money was not spent for his own use.

"Brothers did not expend a cent of the money for himself," his attorney said. "It all went for state materials."

Mechlin, one of the first witnesses, identified 51 checks for $12,208 yesterday as having been deposited to Brothers' personal account.

Joe Shearer of Columbus is assisting D. B. Ulrey as Brothers' counsel. Prosecuting Attorney Donald Hoskins of Franklin county, Forest Detrick and Ralph Bartlett represent the state. The prosecution indicated conviction would mean from one to 10 years in the penitentiary.

A jury of seven women and five men, to hear testimony in the case, was seated yesterday morning.

Day after day examination, denied knowledge of the operation and denied she had at no time discussed it with her brother-in-law.

LANDON-BORAH BALLOT BATTLE HELD IN JERSEY

State Organization Supports Kansan with Roosevelt Sure of Party's 32 Votes.

HOFFMAN BIGGEST ISSUE

Fights For Delegate Post on Hauptmann Case; Both May Win, However.

By The Associated Press
NEWARK, N. J., May 19.—The New Jersey primaries today brought Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas opposite Sen. William E. Borah of Idaho in their first statewide contest for Republican presidential preference.

Landon was supported by the state Republican organization.

President Roosevelt was assured all 32 convention votes in the Democratic primary because the state organization's slate was unopposed.

Four Pledged to Landon

All five candidates for four places as delegates-at-large to the Republican convention are pledged to Landon. There are Landon candidates in 13 of the 14 congressional districts. There are Borah candidates in 11 districts.

Friends have entered both in the preferential primary but the outcome will not be binding on the delegates. In the Democratic preferential primary Col. Henry Breckinridge, legal adviser to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, as the sole entrant, can be beaten only by a write-in vote.

Interest, however, was centered more in the so-called "Jersey Justice" fight between Gov. Harold G. Hoffman and Franklin W. Fort than in the presidential voting.

Both May Win

Although Fort, charging the governor unfit to represent the party because of his intervention in the Hauptmann case, made the fight to keep Hoffman out, both may be elected delegates.

Heavy voting in the Republican boxes was expected as a result of the Hoffman-Fort campaign.

The two carried on their fight to the last minute. Hoffman arranging to speak twice over the radio today, after he had voted in South Amboy.

He knocked down a questioner who accused him of intervention in a speech in New York last night.

Ridiculed Party Role

In an address he said "I am not a silver platter," but he guesses that tomorrow morning Fort would "put the borrowed robes of purity and justice back in the moth balls."

Fort, speaking in his home town of East Orange, said:

"No man has done more in my history to attempt to break down the fundamental American respect for the power and dignity of our courts of justice. In so doing, the governor has directly allied himself with the new deal assault upon our courts and our judicial system."

Both parties are nominating candidates for the United States senate in the house of representatives, given in the state senate and all 60 in the state assembly.

LIGGITT IS WINNER IN OFFICIAL COUNT

Belle Center Man Defeats C. F. Michael for Senate Nomination by 26 Votes.

David A. Liggitt of Belle Center won the Republican nomination for state senator in the Thirteenth-Thirtieth senatorial district over Charles F. Michael of Bucyrus by an official margin of 26 votes.

This was determined today when the official count of last Tuesday's balloting in the senate race was completed. The official figures gave Liggitt a total of 5,023, Michael 4,997.

Mr. Michael, reached at his home in Bucyrus, today, said he will not ask for a recount.

Official figures from the seven counties in the district became available today when the Wyandot county board of elections finished its official tally. Although the count was finished, there remained the formality of the Wyandot county board certifying its vote to the Seneca county board which will assemble the votes of the various counties and certify the results to the secretary of state. This is expected to be done Wednesday.

Since the hotly contested fight for the nomination laid only between Liggitt and Michael, their official votes were the only ones learned today. The totals of the other candidates will not be announced officially until the Seneca county board assembles the votes of the different counties. Latest unofficial returns gave Ray R. Gantner 4,132, Bernard Freeman 2,157 and R. B. Chandler 1,886.

They were the only candidates for the nomination in addition to Liggitt and Michael.

The official vote, by counties, for Liggitt and Michael, follows:

Marion	804	1,517
Seneca	192	389
Crawford	302	599
Logan	2,444	777
Hardin	608	553
Wyandot	219	415
Union	451	671

COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—Labor organization spokesmen drafted their final arguments for the Boyd-Hunter unemployment insurance bill today, with the case of opponents of unemployment insurance legislation at this time virtually all closed.

A special senate committee, studying the question, will attempt to draft a new bill for presentation immediately after hearing the labor spokesmen. One or two opponents still remained to be heard, but a barrage of criticism wound up the bulk of argument against proposed bills late yesterday.

Arch D. Schultz, research director for the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, told the committee it was without sufficient data to pass intelligently on the subject and asserted the merit rating system provided in some proposals would work "an injustice" on many employers. He said the employers would "pay the bill in the end."

He characterized the proposed system as "a new kind of socialism."

HE'S FOE OF NO ASPIRANT

Statement Ends Discussion Over Nature of Talks With Republicans in Maryland.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, May 19.—Herbert Hoover's assertion that he was "not a candidate" but solely concerned with placing "critical issues" before the nation turned attention to the shaping of a Republican platform today.

The former President, in a formal statement issued here late yesterday, set forth:

"It should be evident by this time that I am not a candidate. I have no interest but to get these critical issues before the country."

Opposes No Candidate

"And get one thing straight, I am not opposing any of the candidates. My concern is with principles."

Some observers linked Mr. Hoover's announcement that he opposed no aspirant to the party's presidential nomination with the recent California primary. There a slate of unaffiliated delegates supported by Mr. Hoover defeated a group carrying the banner of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas.

The pronouncement ended speculation over the nature of the former President's conference with party leaders in Maryland. It said:

"My discussions with senators, congressmen and others who visited me from Washington over the week-end related wholly to the Republican platform."

Also a Borah Concern

That document has also been a prime concern of William E. Borah, presidential contender. He is seeking a liberal declaration of principles and repeatedly expressing opposition to the "old guard," the Idahoan has reserved the right to "look over the platform" and candidate approved at the Cleveland convention.

Hoover said former Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois should be asked to write the agricultural plank for the convention.

The former chief executive's views were issued in typewritten form as a question-and-answer interview and made public by Paul Sexton, his secretary, from his suite in the Drake hotel.

Mr. Hoover was not available for comment.

DR. TOWNSEND DENIES DRIVE AIMS AT CASH

M. E. CONCLAVE ENDS AT NOON

Approval of Union with Two Other Methodist Churches Parley's Main Feat.

SEVERAL ISSUES DEFERRED

Assignment of Bishops for Next Four Years Final Action of Delegates.

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., May 19.—An historic 19-day session of the 32nd quadrennial conference of the Methodist Episcopal church—perhaps the last—ended at noon today.

With the song "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow" and a prayer, the delegates closed a meeting featured by approval of a union with two other branches of Methodism which would form the largest single Protestant body in the world.

Because of the affiliation proposal, the 6th delegates deferred other church matters pending formation of a united Methodist church and started for their homes in 42 countries three days ahead of schedule.

Elect Trustees

Delegates, as one of their last official acts, elected members of a board of trustees of the church, incorporated to hold trust funds and perform similar duties.

Those elected to serve until 1940 were: Bishop H. Lester Smith, Dr. George C. Douglas, H. F. Dornette, M. C. Slates, and C. H. Waldo of Cincinnati, and Dr. Carroll H. Lewis of Middletown, O.

To serve until 1944: Dr. Albert G. Schatzman of Columbus, President E. D. Soper of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware, Dr. Frank E. Frisby of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Troy W. Appleby, Leonard Garver Jr., and W. E. Kiplinger of Cincinnati.

Headquarters of the board is in Cincinnati.

The conference concluded its last important business yesterday with assignment of bishops for the next four years.

May Be Last

By its own act this general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church may be the last, since the plan of union with the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and the Methodist Protestant church provides, if approved, for a uniting conference to merge the three Methodist organizations into the united Methodist church.

Cut from the usual four week period to 10 days because much conference business was shelved by adoption of the uniting plan, the general conference and its commissions cost the Methodist church $251,094. The 1932 conference at Atlantic City cost $405,084.

Methodist leaders agreed that approval of the plan of union drafted by a joint commission was the outstanding accomplishment of the 1936 conference.

An almost ceaseless battle between liberal and conservative factions in the church apparently was settled by the adoption of a statement on social and economic questions, termed by its supporters "the peace pact of Methodism."

While the statement upheld the right of Methodist churches and church groups to speak and study various economic plans, it sternly condemned both communism and fascism, and asserted that the church, "believing in both the democratic form and democratic ideal, proposes to resist every form of dictatorship."

PATROLMAN SOPS LIQUOR EVIDENCE FROM STREET

Smashed Jug Falls To Thwart Tong Who Nabs Man After Chase Up North State Street.

As the result of some snappy "sleuthing" on the part of Motorcycle Patrolman Henry Tong, a broken jug of illegal whiskey and a woman with a pair of lips the patrolman save a part of the spilled contents of the jug for evidence featured Jett's arrest yesterday noon.

A chase in which a police car driven by Tong crowded a motorcycle piloted by Jett into the curb, a broken jug of illegal whiskey and a woman with a pair of lips the patrolman save a part of the spilled contents of the jug for evidence featured Jett's arrest yesterday noon.

Then the Split

Tong gave chase and when the fleeing motorcycle and police car neared the city limits on North State street the latter crowded the motorcycle to the side of the road so that its driver and his jug fell off. The jug failed to break with the spill so Jett, Tong said, grabbed it up and dashed it to the pavement before Tong could reach it.

The patrolman grabbed Jett and called to a woman living nearby, who had been watching the proceedings, to bring a pan. Police officers they did not learn her identity.

The patrolman then sopped a part of the liquor up with his handkerchief and squeezed it into the pan. The liquor had run into holes and depressions in the street and Tong recovered nearly a quart for evidence, police reported.

Pleads Guilty

Jett pleaded guilty to a charge of transportation of liquor when arraigned before Judge W. R. Martin in municipal court yesterday afternoon. Judge Martin has reserved his decision pending further investigation of the case.

Chief William E. Marks said police have "had their eye" on Jett for some time.

He said he had not agreed to lend his support to any of the candidates for the nomination.

"I could have no right in release the Ohio delegation to any particular candidate," he added.

The Engquirer said men "who have been active in the campaign to nominate Gov. Alf M. Landon for the presidency, were in the city at the time of conference held among Hamilton county Republican leaders."

The friends of Landon, the Engquirer said, explained that it happened to be here between trains, but Republicans who were quoted as saying "many Ohio Republicans would be pleased if an Ohioan were named for vice president."

BOY, 7, PLAYING WITH MATCHES CAUSE OF FIRES

Investigation Determines Blame for Blazes That Sweep Over Seven Houses.

A seven-year-old West Side boy who was entertaining himself by striking matches and throwing them on the floor of an unoccupied house at 533 Henry street was the cause of a fire that destroyed the house and spread flames to six other nearby residences Saturday afternoon. Fire Chief T. J. McFarland said today.

This was learned in an investigation made yesterday by Chief McFarland and city police.

Chief McFarland said the boy was "innocent," not realizing the danger of playing with matches and that the series of fires that resulted would be charged up to accident rather than any intent of the boy to start them.

BASIS FOR PASTOR'S RESIGNATION CITED

Divorce from Bucyrus Woman Cause of Lutheran Synod Controversy.

By The Associated Press
MANSFIELD, O., May 19.—Dr. Joseph Stiller, president of the Lutheran Synod of Ohio, was expected to include in his report to the group at its 16th annual convention opening here today a charge against Rev. R. N. McMichael, pastor of the Lutheran parish at nearby Lucas, on which was based a request for the pastor's resignation.

The charge of "conduct incompatible with ministerial office" against Mr. McMichael was scheduled to come before the synod at its first business session for disposition.

Mr. McMichael, while holding a pastorate at Ann Arbor, Mich., in 1922, divorced from his first wife, the former Mildred Snyder of Bucyrus. Both are graduates of Wittenberg college. Although the pastor was asked by Dr. Stiller to resign more than a year ago, he delayed until about two weeks ago.

The resignation was rejected by the synod's executive committee.

HIS TESTIMONY DRAWS THROG

People Stand in Aisles as Californian Tells His Story to House Committee.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 19.—As the Townsend old age pension movement was started solely to obtain "old cash," and to make "a hot full of money" were denied by Dr. F. E. Townsend today before a house investigating committee.

A crowded committee room, with people standing in the aisles, listened intently as James R. Sullivan, committee counsel, examined the elderly, retired California physician, who in four years has become a national figure through his plan to pay $200 a month pension to all over 60.

At the outset, Rep. Talton, Democrat of California, a Townsend committee member, put the line of questioning, but he was overruled by Townsend.

"Did you not say 'this old sister has done her part' with you?" asked a five dollar bill from a woman member, Sullivan asked the witness.

"Absolutely not," Dr. Townsend replied.

The present administration was described by Townsend as "the hostile force" behind the committee investigating his pension movement.

The retired California physician emphasized the "unfriendly attitude" of the committee.

His statement that his followers "feel like I do about the two old pills," and that a third party would be organized "as soon as the opportunity presents itself," was applauded by Townsend in the audience.

In naming the administration as the "hostile force" behind the investigation, Dr. Townsend said that his plan would be a recent appeal for a "defense fund," to be spent at his discretion.

"We need millions to carry on a movement like this and we are going to get them," the witness said.

For the most part he sat quietly at the witness table and listened intently as Sullivan read testimony given before a subcommittee in California.

Hope To Increase Circulation

The pension leader was asked whether an expectation to build the Townsend Weekly to a national magazine the size of the Saturday Evening Post with similar financial returns was not one of the main reasons for starting the movement.

"We do hope we can build it to that size," he said.

Sullivan read into the record a letter from Dr. Townsend to Robert E. Clements, former national secretary, Jan. 10, 1935, which said: "You and I have the world by the tail on a down hill pull on the thing 'we work it right'."

"Just two weeks ago today Dr. Townsend appeared before the committee," said Sullivan, "and was ready to stop on the witness stand when he suddenly announced a postponement."

Since that time a Townsend caravan has reached Washington from California, bearing petitions urging congress to enact the Townsend plan into law, and signed Townsend leaders said by 10,000 names.

Observers, however, reported that the committee gave particular attention to a recent appeal for a "defense fund" for the use of Dr. Townsend. The appeal, which appeared in the latest issue of the Townsend National Weekly, over the name of the board of directors, indicated the Bell committee was considering "impounding" the Townsend organization funds. This was denied by Bell.

Bell said the 45 men and women in the "caravan" would be welcomed at today's hearing. He added, however, he would permit no disruption and would put a stop to any heckling.

Silicosis.

NOWADAYS WE read in the newspapers a great deal about "silicosis." This fact can be linked to the increase in the number of cases of silicosis encountered in the diggings of the Gauley Bridge tunnel in West Virginia. A commission has recently been appointed to study this industrial hazard.

Silicosis, formerly called "miner's consumption," is not a modern disease; it has been known for centuries. In fact, Hippocrates, father of modern medicine, spoke of this disease and accurately described its many centuries ago. But it was not until 1902 that the first commission was organized to investigate this problem. The royal commission appointed in England found that silicosis was common among rock drillers and other persons who inhaled dust.

Of course, the inhalation of dust is harmful. But when air that contains silica is inhaled the danger is even greater. Silicosis is due to breathing in the sharp, hard particles of sand, sandstone or quartz, all of which consist largely of silica, or contain it.

The disease is frequently encountered in miners, sand blasters, quarry men, tunnel builders and others engaged in similar occupations. Unfortunately, it is often overlooked in the early stages. The sufferer complains of a chronic cough. At times it may be confused with bronchitis.

As time goes by the silica particles physically damage the delicate tissues of the lungs. This prepares the way for the germs of tuberculosis and pneumonia, as well as other infections of the lungs.

Since the victim of silicosis does not complain of any pain in the beginning of the disease, it is now advised that all workers who are exposed to this danger be subjected to periodic examination. In this way it will be possible to detect the disease before serious symptoms appear. Other measures are now being taken to protect against silicosis.

For example, men engaged in work exposed to silica dust are required to take short shifts and not engage in the occupation for more than a few years. Those who show a physical defect are not permitted to undertake this strenuous work. As a further guard, ventilation systems, gas masks, safety lamps and other protection devices are now available in mines where silica dust is present.

No doubt the present commission will contribute a great deal of information and recommend further steps in the prevention of this serious disease. Until these measures are adopted and enforced, every measure now known must be used to guard against it.

Do not be misled by the belief that short or occasional exposure leads to silicosis. It takes a long time for it to develop, but if you are in doubt or apprehensive, consult with your doctor. The x-ray can detect the disease even in its early stages.

The Stars Say--
For Wednesday, May 20

THIS SHOULD be a day of great merriment and festivity, judging by the lunar aspects. There is a possibility that romance, courtship and marriage celebrations will enliven the attention, with all sordid and commonplace affairs relegated into the background. Friendship and the interest and substantial support of elders and those of position and prestige are assured. Employers also are approachable for favors and promotion but social, romantic and domestic associations are uppermost.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an exceedingly pleasant and happy year, with romance, courtship or marriage claiming all the attention. It is an auspicious time for approaching employers, superiors and elders for favors or promotion. Friendship with the powerful is assured and social affairs will be most felicitous.

A child born on this day may be endowed with great social talents and instincts. It may be popular, lovable and have a very happy and festive life.

Notable nativity: J. S. Mill, economist.

he had got out, searching for help.

"I guess he saw Steve Clappa light. Anyhow they found him next morning where he'd tumbled at the gate. The dogs found him. He still unconscious. Doctor says he's got pneumonia. Clappa heard there was somebody lost around Clappa's house. They had given Rupert the best bed, and Mrs. Clappa was taking care of him. Dirk telephoned to New York for two nurses and for Rupert's physician. He said to Hope:

"I want you to go home. We've found him now, and we'll take him to the room as we can. Dirk saw her to the train, a grave silent figure bundled in a raccoon coat, a brown antelope bare pulled over her hair. He felt strangely at ease regarding Hope. Hope and her child's secret. When she had gone he telephoned Martin to meet her. He telephoned also to Sanford.

During the next few days Rupert remained in a coma. His physician and nurses came from New York. The Clappa home was requisitioned as a hospital, and the Clapps went to stay with neighbors. On Monday Dirk received a telegram. He was in close touch with Sanford and the office out there. It was signed David Logan and it said: "Come at once."

The morning train had already gone so Dirk left Big Moose in his car. Rupert was better than morning. He had emerged into consciousness and the attendants were hopeful. Dirk reached home shortly before dusk. Logan and his companion had not come on. Martin met him in the porch. "Did they wire you?" asked Martin.

"They did. Do you know what it is?" Martin knew. Will you come up to my room. Mister Dirk? I don't talk out here. They went up the back-stair to Martin's room. On the way Dirk said: "Mrs. Joris all right?" "No sir. She's not. She can't leave her room."

"What you called a doctor?" asked Dirk. "She's not as ill as that. But Mary says she looks. She won't let anybody in but Mary. Mister Dirk you may blame me for all this. But you told me to watch you. You told me to guard her. I can't help it if she gives me if she knows it was me."

They were facing each other in Martin's little room on the third floor. Dirk a thousand apprehensions moving through his mind could not help observing that Martin himself looked ill. "You'll probably fire me," Martin said. "Specially at Logan says. But I don't mind being fired if I'm not used to you. You're like this. With you gone and Mister Rupert gone and me and the rest of the help away up here I got to thinking."

"I thought if anybody was after her it would be a clerk in coming while you and Mister Rupert were gone. Up here on this floor nobody can hear a thing. Logan and the other fellow I went out and spoke to them about it. Told them you were away. I wanted one of them to keep the watch inside the house. But they wouldn't do it. Said it was their business to watch the gates. They hadn't received any other instructions. So it seemed my business feeling like I did to stay close to Mrs. Joris though I hadn't room."

"You tried the door?" asked Dirk for Martin had stopped. "Yes sir. I tried it with all my might pushing against it. I could feel it was a flimsy thing not like the other doors. Everything was warped worse than ever. I ran out into the hall and tried that door. It was locked too and felt like the wall itself and I was just turning around to go back and smash in the other door when the one I was trying opened and Mrs. Joris stood there."

She had on a kimono and the light was on in her room. If there'd been a light before it was very dim or I'd have seen it under the door. She said: "What is it, Martin? I told her I'd heard somebody in her room. She said: 'But there is no one here.'"

Something Didn't Turn Up.

The general assembly, which will be reconvened this week to consider the problem of exhausted relief funds in certain counties, faces a situation which cannot be called surprising.

The assembly, like all other legislative groups, including congress, has been dealing with unemployment in the expectation that something would turn up. So far it has been disappointed.

Nothing has turned up. That was the way things usually turned out for the famous Mr. McEwener, who exploited the "turning up" philosophy so persistently. But, as was the case with Mr. McEwener, something may turn up yet.

If and when it does, Ohio, the 47 other states and the federal government will get relief from relief. Instead of appropriating as much money as they can find and knowing almost certainly it will not be enough, they will be able to make smaller appropriations and come out even, or possibly ahead.

Until it happens, however, Ohio's experience will continue to be the rule. There will be recurrent "emergencies" and urgent requests for extra assistance. Relief rolls will stay large when they are expected to get smaller. Unemployment will lag when it is supposed to spur.

Eventually, unless the world has become permanently top-sy-turvy, something will turn up. Mr. McEwener's optimism may be foolish a good deal of the time, but it is based on the well established probability that nearly everything eventually will be all right—or at least better.

Objection No. 3.

When President Roosevelt proposed retirement of oldsters and hiring of youngsters as a likely cure for unemployment several weeks ago, he started a lively argument.

Within a few days the outline of opposition was sketched by critics, who pointed out that the principal thing wrong with the proposal was the assumption that by curtailing employment the country could increase its income. That was Objection No. 1.

Objection No. 2 was the statistical evidence that the total of all the oldsters and youngsters who might be taken out of employment was relatively too small to make any perceptible difference in the number of jobs available to other employables.

Objection No. 3 has been a long time emerging, but finally it has come out in a roundabout way. "Oldsters," it seems, don't take kindly to the theory that they should retire to the chimney corner and spend the rest of their days in quiet rumination.

Gov. Carey of Massachusetts, now deal sympathizer, has proposed a test to determine the fitness of judges more than 70 years old. To date, the governor has been challenged to a bout of fistfights by one 74-year-old jurist and accused of "murder in the first degree" by the Boston Bar association.

In other words, human feelings must be considered when the right to be active is being determined by social doctors. As soon as the youngsters have manifested their opposition (that will be Objection No. 4) it should be plain that the country isn't keen about letting legislators have authority to say who shall and shall not have a right to work.

No Objection.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, a man who is spilling over with ideas, has a new one to add to old age revolving pensions and revival of the town meeting system of government.

The doctor is distrustful of lawyers in government. He thinks it is high time to abandon the idea that legislation can emanate only from those trained in the legal profession.

Therefore, why not try a President of the United States who is not a lawyer? To be specific, why not give serious consideration to choosing the next President from the clergy?

No objection could be made to such a proposal. If a clergyman President didn't prove satisfactory, the country might try an explorer, a scientist, an actor or even a medical doctor. Lawyers don't have exclusive rights to national leadership. It just seems that way.

But, as has happened before, Dr. Townsend has forgotten something. The presidency has been held frequently by men who were not lawyers. It is congress which has been dominated by barristers.

Dr. Townsend wants to elect clergyman to congress, there's no objection to that either. But before we can get aboard the latest Townsend movement, the founder will have to explain exactly how it is going to work. Maybe it would be better to wait until he gets his No. 1 plan cleared up for the inquisitive congressional lawyers before rallying 'round the power one.

Guffey Act Unconstitutional.

The supreme court's adverse ruling in the Guffey act case was inevitable in view of previous decisions against the new deal in similar cases. It remains to be seen whether or not the country will adjust itself to this final blow as easily as it has to other opinions unfavorable to the Roosevelt administration.

The Guffey act was forced through congress to meet threats of labor disturbance in the soft coal industry. It was a remedy for an ailing industry. Many mine operators and nearly all mine workers favored the act. It offered a possible means of helping an industry which needs help sorely.

To operators and workers, whether or not they like the Guffey act, the supreme court has said, in effect, "Under the Constitution of the United States, such legislation cannot be permitted, regardless of how good its purpose and effect may be."

The court's function is to protect the Constitution and, through it, the people from illegal encroachments. The court does not rule directly upon questions of economics. Thus, if the soft coal industry, other industries and the country as a whole wish to permit broader exercise of federal power and can obtain a constitutional amendment, the court will protect such an amendment. That is an important point to remember.

There are individuals and groups which would like to establish radically stronger federal powers without submitting their idea to the slow process of proposal and ratification. They regard the supreme court and the Constitution as obstacles to their progress toward an authoritarian state.

The Guffey act, designed to deal with unsatisfactory conditions in the soft coal industry, was an example of their procedure. Like the recovery act, the agricultural adjustment act, the gold clause act and the "hot oil" act, all ruled unconstitutional. It was passed to meet an emergency. It embodied a principle, however, which had nothing to do with the emergency—an enlargement of the scope of federal power.

That principle does not harmonize with present constitutional law. That is neither the fault nor the responsibility of the supreme court. If the United States wants to amend the Constitution, a method has been provided. If no amendment is added to cover the new deal principle of federal regulation in fields reserved to the states, there is no legal way it can be practiced. That is the essence of representative democracy.

Flowers (In Vases) for Critics.

If Propaganda Minister Goebbels has his way—and usually he does—drama and musical criticism in Germany will become leisurely and "constructive, stimulating and responsible." To accomplish his aim, Herr Goebbels has issued a decree forbidding the press to print criticism of a play or concert before noon of the next day.

Goebbels' belief, apparently, is that if critics don't have to miss the last act or the last movement of the symphony in order to make a deadline, and if they can sleep over their pronouncements instead of rushing from the theater to the typewriter, criticism will be given an uplift. There's a joker in the decree about this delay, which gives the propaganda department more time to scan the proofs that have to be submitted to it, but of course Herr Goebbels is interested in art, not censorship.

There's something to be said for the idea, just as something might be said in favor of Mrs. Grundy. If critics, praising and disparaging, could sleep over their opus, they might go easy on hyperboles and not use the acids so carelessly.

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Wednesday, May 19, 1926. Jacob Nesbitt pleaded guilty in common pleas court at Troy, O., to the murder of his wife on Feb. 19 and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Ohio penitentiary.

The Nesbitt murder case was a mystery for almost a month until finally Detective Ora Slater cleared it up by leading Nesbitt into a confession.

It was announced that Rev. H. L. Votaw and his wife, who was Miss Carolyn Harding, sister of President Harding, would be in Marion May 30 to attend the cornerstone laying at the Harding Memorial.

Mrs. Louise Cunningham was elected president of the City Teachers' association.

Mrs. Frank M. Knapp was hostess to the Round Table club at her home on Bradford street.

Mrs. William Schauf was elected president of the Carpe Diem club at a meeting held at the home of Mrs. Fred E. McWhorter on North Prospect street.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Friday, May 19, 1916. A dispatch from Copenhagen reported that Germany was preparing for a "momentous upheaval." It was reported that there was a growing demand for peace due chiefly to these causes: (1) increasing loss of human life, (2) shortage of food, and (3) growing fear that Germany could not win.

John H. Webster, general agent of the passenger department of the Erie railroad at Cincinnati, reported that he had just received a payment of money from a woman who said it was to reimburse the company for fare which she had failed to pay in taking a trip on the road 50 years ago.

The Marion High school junior class gave its annual banquet for the seniors in the Tally Wag club hall. Douglas Torrance, president of the junior class, gave the address of welcome and Charles Haberman, president of the seniors, gave the response. Howard Guthrie gave a toast to the senior girls and Miss Minnie Keeney responded with a toast to junior boys.

The Waldo board of education elected Frank Thompson of Lewisburg superintendent for the ensuing year.

Influence of Young Republicans Felt

C. O. P. Leans More Toward Liberal Attitude as Democrats Withdraw from Left-Wing Stand.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1936, by The Marion Star

WASHINGTON, May 18.—The most important campaign development at the moment is the very definite way in which various influences, factors and events are tending toward a contest, not between a reactionary and a radical program, but between a Republican platform that looks more toward liberalism and progressivism than any since 1912 and a Democratic platform that seeks to move away somewhat from its following extremes.

The adoption by the Association of New York State Republican clubs of a progressive and forward-looking platform which makes a pronounced departure from the ultra-conservative and standstill platforms that have been emanating from New York state Republicanism for many years is an event of large significance. It is symbolic of the revolt of younger Republicans all over the country against the blind, uncompromising, indeed chaotic politics of the so-called "old guard" groups.

If the younger Republicans only realized how strong they are, how relatively simple it would be for them to capture the party and with it the imagination of many independent voters, they would move unhesitatingly toward aggressive leadership. Perhaps they do not know that many of the forward-looking business men of the country who year in and year out have been supporting the "old guard" with campaign contributions, fighting any direct participation and leaving it to the politicians to deal with the supposedly mysterious subject of "politics," are just about ready to abandon the old groups for new and inspiring leadership.

This, indeed, is one of the amazing undercurrents of the campaign. It might be supposed that the "old guard" and "big business" together are looking askance at the younger groups, actually the words "big business" mean little today in national politics and instead there has come to the front a new group of business men who are much more interested in a fair opportunity to bring reemployment and profits than they are in special governmental favors.

There are, of course, minorities in all groups and factions and there are, for instance, several of the old school who think all that is necessary this year is for them to contribute a lot of money, swing a damn vote about Roosevelt and the election will be won.

Just beginning to dawn on some of the business men is what the younger Republicans have been saying right along, namely that the time has come to meet ideas with ideas and for the Republican party to show that it is just as humanitarian, just as progressive, and just as jealous of the rights and opportunities of the common man as it is the new deal party.

Now what is meant by "young Republicans"? It is not a classification akin to "young men" in the generation that went through the World War and is just coming of age, so to speak, a generation that knows the difference between sound economics and "crack-pot" economics and knows also that government for the few doesn't get the votes for the simple reason that it is fundamentally wrong.

These trends and tendencies toward a progressive platform do not mean a "left wing" program. But considered in purely Republican terms, the forthcoming platform is very likely to be what conservative Republicans would a few years ago have denounced as radical.

For many weeks it has been reported hereabouts that Gov. Landon had mapped out his strategy in the event of nomination and that he would not hesitate to criticize during the campaign, in fact to disavow many of the Republican doctrines of the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover regimes and would move closer to the social justice line which was embodied in the Theodore Roosevelt Republicanism of 1912.

Certainly the direction of Republicanism today would seem to be away from the extreme right and in the left direction, well toward the middle point. The platform of the New York Young Republicans is an excellent document for a start, but it is not concretely definitive, though it will doubtless furnish the basis for the national platform that will be written at Cleveland.

Curiously enough, as the Republicans move away from what might be called a right wing position, the Democrats are moving away from the extreme left wing that they have maintained for three years and are tending now over toward the middle again. The influence of middle-the-roaders inside the new deal is rising and the platform will not differ in several particulars from that which the Young Republicans have just adopted. This is because the objectives are much clearer to the Democrats themselves now that the country has manifested a protest in various ways against regimentation and manipulation of government power by bureaucracy.

Inside the Republican party, the power influence of Senator Borah becomes every day more of a factor. The Idaho senator is not likely to take his own defeat in the primaries as a personal matter, but as a stimulus to renewed drive for a progressive platform. Mr. Borah's concept of the need for free competition and an attack on monopoly may provide considerable controversy at the sessions of the platform committee, but in the end his views will be accepted.

Unless all signs fail, the Republican party of 1936 will be progressive. Anything else will mean a forfeiting of the campaign on the day the convention adjourns. As for the Democrats, their chance of winning back millions of votes they have lost lies in a convincing demonstration of their readiness to abandon unbound experimentation for a sound program that protects the wage envelope against inflation arising out of unbalanced budgets and wasteful expenditures.

More Puzzling Than Usual

Situation Before G. O. P. Convention Like Mystery Drama

By BYRON PRICE (Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Politics is a perplexing business under any circumstances. It seldom does it bring together many bewildered minds as now in heading for the Republican convention at Cleveland. If that is being whispered comes from the party's June show will feature high rank among the mystery dramas of all time.

This can be said without revealing in the least on the claims of prediction of any candidate or managers. Whatever the outcome, a surprising and submerged elements exist in only the convention can clear the situation.

Chances and Counter-Chances There is the candidacy of Governor Landon, which he himself needs to consider to be a candidacy at all but for the strength is claimed among the gates who publicly are saying nothing.

There are the counter-claims of the managers for Colonel Knox, who predict a sudden emergence of Knox sentiment among the same non-committal delegates.

There is the case of Sen. Borah, whose supporters see him as a spokesman of the masses of public voters and whose intentions with respect to the convention have been a subject of widespread and earnest conjecture. There is the problem of former President Hoover, talked of seriously among his friends as taking a silent following in state delegations, ready to come out his wishes, whatever they may turn out to be.

There is the extraordinary mystery string of dark rumors ranging from one or two who have been whispered of national prospects for many months as real prospects to others who scarcely have heard of outside their own state and still others whose friends claim no delegates at all.

Few Delegates Instructed Finally, there is the unexpected fact that so far as second orders from the convention will be concerned, the convention will be closed to end the show any way it likes. Most of the delegates have been chosen. Not only is the overwhelming majority uninstructed but a warm dispute is in progress as to what they really are thinking about and intending to do.

In most previous conventions it has been possible for the interested observers to make up a fairly dependable table showing the relative standing of the contestants. This year the rival managers are making the table, in they are leaving out many details and the results are highly contradictory.

Two great blocs of delegates, particularly, are variously claimed and all sorts of rumors are in circulation as to who, if anyone, controls them, and what will be done with them.

One is an eastern bloc, including such important states as New York and Pennsylvania. The other comprises virtually all of the south. Together, these two groups easily could control the nomination. But can they get together? It more than accidental that both go uninstructed, and if so, who pulled the strings?

Obviously all of the conjecture and all of the predictions cannot be right.

Somebody is riding to a big prize. Some of the things which now appear large and important to the public eye will fade out inevitably into phantoms.

The mere knowledge that this is true adds to the atmosphere of mystery which begins to envelop the Republican picture as the convention time nears. It is like watching a wrestling match in which one of the men is certain never to return alive.

Hoover, Borah, Knox, Landon, Vandenberg—many names with which the public has lived on intimate terms are sure to be far bigger names or far smaller names after the mists have lifted and the myths have been exploded at Cleveland.

Huey's Widow The voting record of Mrs. Huey P. Long indicates she has no position to carry on the reelection battle her late husband fought with the administration.

She has voted, for the most part, as administration leaders have voted. Quietly disposed, Mrs. Long has had nothing to say about pending legislation.

She is handsome enough to arouse audible comment among gallery spectators as she comes to the senate chamber. Her elegant husband occupied a front seat in the rear, immediately below the public galleries.

Views Unlike Husband's There are instances where a very apparent her vote would be contrary to the way Mr. Long would have voted. In retrospect it appears certain he would have opposed the motions by the majority Leader Robinson and the two Republican amendments to the Vandenberg resolution relating reports on AAA benefit payments.

One would have required a statement of all WPA employees pointed outside the civil service and the other would have directed a mild investigation into the settlement administration.

The tabling motions by which they were killed automatically off debate, a procedure which was attributed to Mr. Robinson.

It has been said at different times that she follows the administration, or that she follows the lead of Mrs. Hattie Caraway, or that she follows the lead of elder woman senator, or that she follows the voice of Senator Overton of Louisiana, a long organized man.

Behind the News

Men and Affairs Under The Washington Spotlight.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 18.—Senator Norris is the most powerful man in congress on utility legislation, but he has never been powerful enough to force the new deal to use civil service.

His latest legislative baby is the rural electrification bill. A locket was hung around its neck by the conference committee of congressmen who spanked it into final shape. The inscription read:

"This act shall be administered on a non-partisan basis. No political test or qualification shall be permitted. All appointments and promotions shall be made on the basis of merit. If the administrator is found by the President to be guilty of a violation of this section, he shall be removed from office by the President, and any appointee violating this section shall be removed by the administrator."

In plain American, this means there shall be no politics in rural electrification except that much is satisfactory to whoever happens to be administrator and whoever happens to be President.

It is no secret that the non-partisan prayer was inscribed as an excuse for not putting rural electrification under civil service. In fact, the piety of this expression enabled the last minute spankers of the bill to go farther and provide that the administrator appoint and fix the compensation of attorneys, engineers and experts without regard to provisions of civil service laws.

It is what is known facetiously in congress as a "compromise" between the spoils system of the house bill and the civil service provision of the senate bill.

As a first step, the President is empowered to transfer into the new organization the entire present setup of rural electrification which was selected before pretense was necessary.

Economy Economizing can be a costly extravagance.

In the celebrated economy act of two years ago there was a provision designed to force the retirement of aged civil service employees. The lawmakers figured that such a strict enforcement of the retirement act would cut down government costs.

The law was passed and 8,000 workers retired. Their salaries were saved, but when it came time to pay their retirement allowances it was discovered the retirement fund was $60,000,000 short of the necessary amount, because they were in service such a short time.

Added Starter

Senator Haulings recently announced he would not be a candidate for reelection to the senate, but he did say anything about the vice presidency. Higher-ups within the party accept him as an active candidate now for second place on the Republican ticket.

New York Notes

O. O. McIntyre's Diary of Fact, Fancy and Folks.

NEW YORK, May 18.—The amazingly young and equally brash Milton Berle continues to put Broadway in stitches. Received at first with jeers as a smart alec gag filler, he has become the favorite comedian of that rally strip between Herald Square and Columbus Circle.

In his early 20's, Bronx born, he has been appearing publicly only a few years. So juvenile was he in his beginning his mother escorted him to and from the theater and everywhere. And she continues his constant companion on stage and off.

Chin Sile used to do an impersonation of a small town slicker who knows all the answers. And that was Berle. He has the ingratiating grin of the cat that just ate the canary and has mastered that popular art of turning the most devastating jokes on himself.

What seems to be irritating freshness now will likely mellow with years and experience. Many crack comedians expressed it in formative days. George M. Cohan with his nasal twang and humped over lobe called himself the "Yankee Doodle Boy." Today his art is tinged with shyness.

Lignon Johnson is a one-man title guaranty company and the sole proprietor of one of those odd business ventures that makes a good living. By a complete index system, he can tell in a jiffy the origin, ownership and other facts about titles for motion pictures, plays and books and thus aver budding authors and producers away from legal entanglements. And that as so many have found, is something.

I have wondered about the anonymous genius who perpetrates the ads. for a clothing house in the New York theater programs. The job is a play on play titles. For instance if the opus is called "Summer of '69" he puns: "Some are wives of tall men, others are wives of short men. A job such as that must wear one down after a few seasons. Indeed I'd toss in the sponge after one."

The big musical revue along with intimate little versions as sponsored by Sam Harris and Irving Berlin are believed on their way out. Even Ziegfeld could not compete with the luxury of the film glorifying his name. George White dropped $60,000 on his last venture and Earl Carroll is devoting his talents to floor shows in Miami restaurants and the Dallas exposition. Many things contributed to the debacle, chiefly the talkies and the gobbling outstanding talent and enormous expenses.

The enormous revues put on by Broadway cafes, the big revues were generally "angled," too, by the Wall Street plungers willing to take a flyer in theatricals after a big killing.

Finley Peter Dunne preferred the martyrdom of complete isolation in his slow death from a malignant throat malady. When doctors pronounced his doom, he left the devotion of his family for a hotel apartment rather than become what he thought would be a burden. Dunne was one of the richest writers through inheritance of a friend and companion, "Mr. Dooley" philosophy so delighted Payne Whitney he bestowed gifts and a bequest totaling more than $2,000,000. It was the same sort of comradeship that now exists between young Jack Whitney and Robert Benchley.

Dexter Fallows, of the circus, has joined the autobiographers with "This Way to the Circus." Aside from being the best known press agent in the world, he is far and away the most popular. So popular indeed he does not have to try to make news. When he comes to town—a hundred towns and more yearly—he merely sits in his headquarters smoking a cigar and the reporters flock to him. And never go away without a bang-up yarn.

LEADERS DRAFT NEW COAL LAW

New Dealers Meet With Mine Operators and Labor Men To Map Guffy Substitute.

TO INCLUDE PRICE FIXING
Laws Better Against Supreme Court While Snell Lauds His Latest Decision.

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON, May 19.—Post-poned on the old Guffy coal bill, the new bill was introduced today and moves to create a new law to occupy the capital today and the day of clashing state-ments on yesterday's court de-cisions.

New deal officials gathered with mine operators and labor men to map the new bill. It is understood it would include some price regulation laws.

The supreme court, in its opinion on the old act, did not commit itself on any attitude toward price-fixing, it enacted separately from wage, hour, and other labor regulations. Labor clauses were carefully outlined.

Lawyers on the decision was said to be "every decision of the supreme court seems destined to be capital and labor and de-termined labor." Rep. Snell, Republi-can of New York, minority leader, said the decision "will meet with the approval of the great majority of the people."

The decision raised speculation as to the fate of other legislation, notably the Wagner labor relations act regulating employer-employee relations in many industries.

Disputes continued as to the scope of a District of Columbia court of appeals decision hearing on the restriction of administration. Attorney General Cummings said the decision would have no effect on the model housing projects such as the one at Bound Brook, N. J. Opposing attorneys argued the whole $275,000,000 agency headed by Rexford G. Tugwell came within the scope of the invalidation.

Work To Continue
Resettlement officials, however, indicated most of the agency's activities, including the transfer of farm families to better land, would be continued. It was made plain that WPA and other relief activities, financed like the resettlement administration from the $450,000,000 relief appropriation of 1935, would go on.

Other Washington activities: Secretary Morgenthau announced this country would buy Chinese silver and sell dollar exchange to China to help her stabilize currency. He kept the door open for stabilization talks with other nations.

The senate yesterday ratified the new Franco-British-American naval treaty.

ZEPPELIN MAY REACH NEW YORK TONIGHT

Voyage Uneventful Except for Squall That Tips Ship and Breaks Dishes.

By The Associated Press
ABOARD THE ZEPPELIN HINDENBURG EN ROUTE TO AMERICA, May 19.—Swinging south of a storm area over the Atlantic, the big Zeppelin Hindenburg picked up speed today with a possibility of reaching New York late tonight on its second flight from Germany.

Except for one sudden squall yesterday which tipped the airship's nose, broke dishes and frightened some passengers, the voyage proceeded with smooth monotony.

Capt. Ernst Lehmann, in command of the craft, told the passengers at dinner the unusual weather conditions being encountered on the flight involved no danger.

The Hindenburg passed south of the depressed area last night while still 1,850 nautical miles from New York, and raised its pace against head winds to 58 knots. The average speed for the flight thus far has been 59.8 knots despite slower time during storms.

The Zeppelin left Frankfurt at 11:35 p. m. Marion time, Saturday, for Lakehurst, N. J.

At 7 a. m. the Hindenburg's position as reported by radio marine was 38 degrees, 23 minutes north latitude and 54 degrees 33 minutes west longitude—approximately 945 miles from New York.

SENTIMENT WITH KILLER
The story of the efforts of Gen. Harmar to punish Lewis Wetzel for killing an Indian in time of peace shows how general was the feeling among early settlers in southeastern Ohio that all Indians were bad Indians. Soon after Ft. Harmar was built at the mouth of the Muskingum, Gen. Harmar hired Wetzel as a scout. Wetzel met a harmless Indian in the woods and killed him. Harmar ordered Wetzel arrested and tried for murder.

The scout, escaped. Gen. Harmar offered a reward for Wetzel, dead or alive, and he was arrested later. But on all sides the general heard so much in commendation of Wetzel that he finally released him.

Following the round of golf, which members may start anytime from 2 to 4 p. m., the group will hold a get-together dinner for the purpose of welcoming 36 new members. The program for the affair is under the direction of Marty Kavanaugh, Gilmora Hiett, chairman of the program committee, and Elmer J. Schoenlaub, chairman of the membership committee.

A complete schedule of tournaments to be held at the Country club will be announced later this week, Kavanaugh said.

Then Tomitsuka reported the loss to the police. After a long search they learned that a blacksmith had made for Masao Iwakawa a substitute key for the school box which had held the portrait. Iwakawa was arrested and confessed.

Warns Against Those Who Spread Philosophy of Despair Throughout Nation.

By The Associated Press
ATLANTA, Ga., May 19.—Gov. Alf M. Landon's credo for youth, enunciated in a private village and heard by a national radio audience, counseled 29 high school graduates last night to undertake their responsibilities courageously and to beware of "prophets preaching the doctrine of despair."

The Republican presidential possibility made an unusual appearance in an improvised amphitheater under flood lights and before a crowd of farm folk and neighbors numbering several thousand. Landon explained that he came because he had been asked by an old friend whose son was among those receiving diplomas.

Concluding with a round of hand-shaking which required an hour, the Kansas governor began an overnight trip which brought him this morning to Emporia, Kas. for a visit with William Allen White, the editor and author, who is a delegate to the Republican national convention at Cleveland.

From a flower-banked rostrum of rough-hewn timbers the governor dwelt on "trilema" he termed "part of the gospel of human freedom," and cautioned against "a tendency to overthrow the fundamental truths of life that have been learned from long experience."

Landon emphasized "there is no substitute for courage," and warned "there is still another kind of courage that this generation will have to show. I mean courage in facing the fact that many difficult adjustments will have to be made in the future."

1 TO 2 POINTSGood News Offset by Market's
Failure To Carry Through
Yesterday's Spurt.NEW YORK, May 19.—The stock market tripped over its own feet today and fell for losses of fractions of 2 to more points.The general run of news was constructive, marketwise, but the failure of the last yesterday to respond more than briefly to the supreme court's voidance of the Gut-try act, which unsettled the market, trading turned dull later, and recoveries were few and feeble.Shares of Amerasia and J. I.
Case, at the approach of the fourth hour, were off about 4 each. Down
2 or 30 were American Telephone,
Western Union, Santa Fe, Standard
Oil of New Jersey, Johns-Manville,
American Can, Allied Chemical and Woolworth.Lesser recessions were shown by U. S. Steel, Consolidated Edison,
New York Central, Montgomery
Ward, Sears Roebuck, Phillips
Petroleum, Chrysler, General Motors and American Smelting, gold mining issues were fairly steady.Bonds followed stocks down.
Commodities were mixed, and foreign gold currencies firmed in terms of the dollar.Preliminary estimates of the freight car loadings for the week ended May 16, placed the figure at around 880,000 cars. This would be a new top for the year, and 17 per cent above the aggregate in the comparable period a year ago. Loadings for the week of May 9 amounted to 668,935 cars.The French franc, at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions, was up .001-6 of a cent at 55.84 cents, and sterling was 1/4 of a cent easier at $4.97 1/4.
